Christie leads final poll

Raleigh, N.C. – Chris Christie leads Jon Corzine 47-41 in Public Policy Polling’s final survey of the New Jersey Governor’s race. Independent Chris Daggett polls at 11%.

Christie’s six point lead is an increase from four points a week ago and a single point three weeks ago. He’s buoyed by a 52-29 lead with independents, as well as the fact that his party is more unified around him than the Democrats are around Corzine. 82% of Republicans say they will vote for Christie while just 72% of Democrats say the same for the incumbent.

If Christie does indeed end up as the winner it will be an indication that you can only be so unpopular as an elected official and still hope to get reelected. 57% of voters in the state have an unfavorable opinion of Corzine while only 34% view him positively. Christie isn’t exactly Mr. Popularity, as only 43% of voters in the state have a favorable opinion of him to 42% negative, but compared to Corzine those numbers look pretty good.

Interestingly even though the poll’s respondents favored Christie 46% of them still think that Corzine will be the eventual winner to 40% picking the Republican.

Corzine leads 76-12 among African Americans and 51-37 among Hispanics but trails Christie by a resounding 55-33 margin with white voters.

“For most of the last three months the election had moved more and more in Jon Corzine’s direction but it appears that his momentum stopped about three weeks ago,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “As Chris Daggett’s support started to decline Christie’s went back up.”

PPP surveyed 994 likely New Jersey voters on October 31st and November 1st. The survey’s margin of error is +/-3.1%. Other factors, such as refusal to be interviewed and weighting, may introduce additional error that is more difficult to quantify.
